

The CARES Study
Resource Guide
for the US South

Updated:
07/23/2024

We have collected resources for the transgender and the non-binary community. These resources are available at the national, state and local levels. The resources are varied from counseling, housing insecurity, workforce development and more. We hope this guide with assists you with locating some services near you that might be beneficial. Some of these resources are not LGBTQ+ specific but may have the assistance that you are looking for.

We work regularly to expand the resources offered and to confirm that the information is up to date. If you find that a link is broken, an organization has closed, or our guide lacks a resource you need, please let us know at cares@duke.edu.

While we have done our best at vetting these resources, we cannot guarantee each person's experience. The resources that we have found to have received mixed reviews are marked with an asterisk (*).

We hope you find this guide useful, and remember, a great place to start is your local LGBT Center.

Kentucky Healthcare

Kentucky Health Justice Network

KHJN supports Kentuckians towards achieving autonomy in our lives and justice for our communities. We advocate, educate, and provide direct services to ensure all Kentucky communities and individuals have power, access, and resources to be healthy and have agency over our lives.

Address: PO Box 4761, Louisville, KY 40204

Website: <https://www.kentuckyhealthjusticenetwork.org/>

Healthcare Services Offered:

KHJN provides direct services through the KHJN Support Fund, a practical support abortion fund. The Support Fund is a staff supported network of volunteers who help people seeking abortion with financial assistance, transportation, interpretation, and more. Click here to learn more about the Support Fund or how to access services.

Our Trans Health Advocacy program works to help Trans Kentuckians access the healthcare they need, as well as reaffirm our autonomy and community. We do this through in person advocacy and support, financial assistance for gender affirming care, connecting folks with online and community resources, as well as advice and assistance navigating insurance. Our program aims to put a greater focus on the intersectional barriers Trans Kentuckians face when accessing healthcare such as structural and interpersonal racism, classism, ableism, and sizeism.

QWELL Community Foundation

QWELL Community Foundation began as a series of conversations about why Austin, with the nation's third-largest LGBTQIA+ population per capita, had no community center connecting residents with each other and the affirming resources they need. Dozens of organizations and hundreds of community members contributed to the discussion. As LGBTQIA+ leaders and residents shared visions for how a community center could help, it became apparent that Greater Austin's LGBTQIA+ community was missing other key infrastructure. We needed to go deeper.

West Virginia

Healthcare

Dr. Rainbow

Dr. Rainbow is a proud conception of Covenant House, a nonprofit centered in Charleston, WV.

Covenant House has a long and proud history as advocates for both rural health and LGBTQ rights. Since the 1980's, the organization has stood firmly against discrimination and opened the only comprehensive resource program for people living with HIV/AIDS. As advocates before West Virginia's supreme court, Covenant House has argued that "All people in West Virginia have a right to shelter, food, and medical care." West Virginia was the second state in the nation to provide these basic rights.
